HAN-GINS Cloud Technology UCITS ETF - Acc

Factsheet | Data as of 31 May 2020

Investment Objective

HAN-GINS Cloud Technology UCITS ETF (SKYY) is a UCITS compliant Exchange Traded Fund domiciled in Ireland. SKYY tracks the Solactive Cloud Technology Index (Net Total Return), an index designed to measure the performance of companies active in the field of cloud technologies, such as service providers or producers of equipment or software focused on cloud computing.

Why SKYY?

Transparent, Modern Approach:

SKYY follows a transparent rules-based index that uses an artificial intelligence based approach to identify and capture companies involved in cloud technologies.

Efficient:

In a single trade, SKYY delivers access to a basket of companies with high exposure to the cloud technology theme.

Global Exposure:

SKYY constituents are not limited to one region or country, providing exposure to cloud technology companies on a global basis.

Key Risks

1. The value of equities and equity-related securities can be affected by daily stock and currency market movements.
2. Emerging & frontier markets are subject to greater market volatility than developed markets.
3. Investors' capital is fully at risk and investors may not get back the amount originally invested.
4. Exchange rate fluctuations could have a negative or positive effect on returns.

RISK FACTORS

While the general risk factors set out in the section entitled Risk Factors in the Prospectus apply to the SubFund, the following risk factors described in the Prospectus under the headings Absence of prior active market, Capital Controls and Sanctions Risk, Concentration Risk, Emerging Market Risks, Currency Risk, Interest Rate Risk, Liquidity of Investments, Small- and Mid-Capitalisation Risk, Political and/or Legal/Regulatory Risk, Regulatory Restrictions, Index Rebalancing and Costs Risk and Issuer-specific Risk are particularly relevant for the Sub-Fund. In addition, the following to the above, the following risk is also relevant to this Sub-Fund: 9.1 Sectoral Investment Risk To the extent the SubFund invests a significant portion of its assets in the securities of companies of a sector, it is more likely to be impacted by events or conditions affecting that sector. The Sub-Fund may invest a relatively large percentage of its assets in sectors, including the consumer discretionary sector, the information technology sector and the financial sector, which sectors have tended to form a relatively large percentage of the Index. Further details of the specific risk relevant to these sectors are set out below.

Consumer Discretionary Sector Risk:

This sector consists of, for example, automobile, media and retail companies. The consumer discretionary sector of the economy can be significantly affected by, among other things, economic growth, worldwide demand and consumers' disposable income levels and propensity to spend.

Information Technology Sector Risk:

This sector can be significantly affected by, among other things, the supply and demand for specific products and services, the pace of technological development and government regulation. Challenges facing companies in the information technology sector include distressed cash flows due to the need to commit substantial capital to meet increasing competition, particularly in formulating new products and services using new technology, technological innovations that make existing products and services obsolete, and satisfying consumer demand.
